INTRODUCTION

1. About GeeksForGeeks-

I can say it is one of the most useful website for the students who are preparing for technical interviews related to the computer Science field. They will provide from naive to optimal solution for every problem and in addition to that they will provide IDE also which is useful to us to modify existing code and test.

They provide code in many languages such as C, JAVA and python.

Really great thanks to the founder of geeksforgeeks Sandeep Jain for bringing up this platform free of cost to all programming admirers.

If an opportunity comes I would love to contribute to the geeksforgeeks website as my part.

Initially, GeeksforGeeks was mainly article based and soon, they started their courses. Coming from an engineering background, I can tell you how useful those classes have been for me and my peers. Not just that, a lot of the times our professors themselves recommended GfG to us just in case concepts had to be understood at our own pace and engineering classes being so big, this aspect was difficult.

2. Vision

This Platform strives to provide the best and updated knowledge to each and everyone in this country which is so big in size and people with all backgrounds live here .
