INTRODUCTION

Indian Railways is one of the three largest Railway Systems under a single management in the world. They not only constitute the lifeline of the country but also rank foremost in the infrastructure, thus contributing materially to the all-around growth of the Nation. To understand this, we may refer to some of the key statistics of the Indian Railway.

The Financial Adviser and Chief Accounts Officer under the General Manager has a dual role, that of a Financial Adviser as well as of an Accounts Officer. The finance Organisation of the Railway Board is under the control of the Financial, Executive Directors, Directors, Joint Directors, and Deputy Directors. The Financial Commissioner is the representative of the Government of India, Ministry of Finance, on the Railway Board. He exercises the full powers of the Government of India to sanction railway expenditure, subject to the general control of the finance minister. No proposal involving expenditure or affecting railway revenues can be accepted until it has been accepted by him or on his behalf, and if, on any question, his views do not coincide with those of the Minister, he has the right to make a reference to the finance minister. The officers of the Finance Directorates are expected to assist him in carrying out these responsibilities.
