(Date from 08/01/2024 to 20/01/2024)

Organised By UGC-HRDC and Department of Political Science

Guru Ghasidas Central University, Bilaspur (Chhattisgarh) 495 009

The Programme

Political science is a dynamic subject and keeps pace with the changing scenario of the political institutions in both national and international regime. The wide umbrella approach enables us to think differently from other people and also think in a focused manner. Although knowledge needs to be updated with the recent progress, a teacher has to remain cautious and vigilant for all certain changes and definitely he is deemed in the society as a person to predict about the futuristic things as only the prediction of a scholar i.e. researcher are based on the facts, ground realities or researches. Different dimensions of political science give us an opportunity to share our thoughts on a platform that has been provided by The University Grants Commission in the form of a refresher course or a faculty development programme which in real sense not only refresh or update our acquired knowledge at the same time it provides an opportunity to share our studies conducted in different streams of political science.

The Refresher Course on *Emerging Trends in Political Science Studies and Researches will give the participants an opportunity to explore or reacquaint themselves with the recent developments in the field of Political Science through the exploration of studies and researches conducted and ongoing. The different methods to be adopted during the Course would be lectures and interactions between the resource persons and the participants, group assignments, field visit, group presentations. It is hoped that the skill gained during this academic journey will enable the participants to effectively deal with contemporary challenges on changing dimensions of political science.

CONCEPT NOTE:

The Schedule tribe community constitutes 8% of the total population of the country out of which 47% are women. The tribal women have been the cultural keepers of our ancient heritage, values, practices, and traditional knowledge. They have a glorious past of contributing to India's independence struggle and have played a pivotal role in preserving water, forest, and land. As we stand at the threshold of India's 77th year of independence, it would be pertinent to focus on recognizing and empowering these communities which have always been an inseparable part of the story of India, whether it is its glorious past or dynamic present or promising future. To ensure this identifying the needs, aspirations, perspectives, and challenges of tribal women and making adequate policy interventions become very important at this juncture. This is also high time when we unearth and determine the inspirational roles of tribal women leaders in showing the world, the path of peaceful and harmonious coexistence with nature and fellow human beings. In the above context, the Department of Political Science is organizing a National Conference on the 'Role of Tribal Women in India's Transformation' along 'with the following Sub-themes:
