Introduction

The purpose of my internship was to gain hands-on experience in the field of public policy, particularly within the context of Chhattisgarh, a state that presents a unique blend of opportunities and challenges in policy implementation. My decision to focus on public policy stems from a deep interest in understanding how governmental decisions impact societal development and the well-being of communities, especially in regions with diverse socio-economic landscapes like Chhattisgarh.

Public policy plays a critical role in shaping the lives of citizens by addressing issues such as poverty, education, healthcare, and infrastructure development. In India, where states have significant autonomy in policy-making, understanding the nuances of regional policies is essential for fostering inclusive growth and sustainable development. Chhattisgarh, with its rich tribal heritage and considerable natural resources, presents a compelling case study for public policy due to its distinct socio-economic profile and the unique challenges it faces.

Chhattisgarh is one of India's youngest states, formed in 2000, and is predominantly rural with a large tribal population. The state has made significant strides in various sectors, including agriculture, education, and healthcare, but continues to grapple with issues such as poverty, underdevelopment in tribal areas, and the effective delivery of public services. Given its status as a developing state with considerable potential for growth, Chhattisgarh serves as an ideal environment to study the impact of public policy on marginalized communities and the role of government interventions in driving socio-economic progress.

My internship provided me with the opportunity to delve into these issues by working closely with Devendra Yadav, MLA-Bhilai Nagar, Chhattisgarh an organization deeply involved in policy advocacy and implementation in the state. Through this experience, I aimed to gain a deeper understanding of how public policies are formulated, the challenges faced in their implementation, and the strategies employed to overcome these challenges. Additionally, I sought to contribute to ongoing projects that aimed to enhance policy effectiveness, particularly in areas such as rural development, education, and social welfare.

By focusing on Chhattisgarh, I intended to explore how public policies can be tailored to meet the specific needs of a region and its people, and how such policies can be leveraged to promote inclusive growth and development in one of India's most resource-rich yet economically challenged states.

3. INTRODUCTION

Chitrakoot, often referred to as the "Hill of Many Wonders," is a town rich in cultural, historical, and natural significance. Nestled in the northern heartland of India, Chitrakoot straddles the border between Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh. This sacred town is deeply intertwined with the ancient epic Ramayana, believed to be the place where Lord Rama, his wife Sita, and his brother Lakshmana spent a significant part of their 14-year exile. The town is renowned for its plethora of sacred temples, lush landscapes, and historical landmarks, making it a revered pilgrimage site and a compelling tourist destination.

Chitrakoot is a renowned pilgrimage centre celebrated in ballads and scriptures for its religious significance and deep connection to the epic Ramayana. Revered as the place where Lord Ram and Goddess Sita spent around 12 years of their exile, it also holds the distinction of being the location where Sage Atri and Sati Anusuiya practiced meditation. This holy town, nestled in the sylvan surroundings on the banks of the Mandakini River (also known as Payasvini), straddles the borders of Uttar Pradesh and Madhya Pradesh. The riverside is adorned with ghats (bathing steps) and the town itself is dotted with numerous temples, each whispering tales of the past.

Despite its immense potential, Chitrakoot faces significant challenges in managing and promoting tourism sustainably. Issues such as inadequate infrastructure, insufficient marketing, and the need for better visitor facilities hinder its growth and development of tourism in the region. There is also a critical need to balance tourism development with the preservation of Chitrakoot's cultural and natural heritage. This internship aims to address these challenges by developing and implementing strategies that foster sustainable tourism, enhance visitor experiences, and engage local communities.

ग्राम पंचायत क्या है ?

ग्राम पंचायत ग्राम सभा की कार्यकारी इकाई है जिसका चुनाव ग्राम सभा द्वारा प्रत्येक पांच वर्ष पर किया जाता है। ग्राम पंचायत में एक अध्यक्ष, एक उपाध्यक्ष व पंच होते हैं। अध्यक्ष को प्रधान/सरपंच/मुखिया कहते हैं व उपाध्यक्ष को उप प्रधान कहते हैं। सदस्यगण को पंच कहते हैं। ग्राम पंचायत ही गांव में पंचायतीराज अधिनियम द्वारा प्रदत्त 29 विषयों सम्बंधित कार्य, सरकारी योजनाओं व अन्य विकास कार्यों को निष्पादित करती है तथा अपने प्रत्येक कार्य के लिए ग्राम सभा के प्रति उत्तरदायी होती है। ग्राम पंचायत क्या है ? और ग्राम पंचायत व ग्राम सभा में क्या अंतर है अधिकांश लोग भ्रमित हो जाते हैं व दोनों को एक ही समझ लेते हैं जबकि दोनों में अंतर है।

ELDERLY CARE

INTRODUCTION

In the past, India had a joint family system, with at least three generations living under one roof. But gradually, society moved away from this system and the nuclear family became the norm. However the character of the nuclear family has also changed over the years. Earlier, women tended to stay at home and take care of the family, but now, they too have started to take up a job and make a career. This has opened a gap in childcare. But in this situation, grandparents are the ideal choice to step in for parents, as all generations benefit from the interaction.

ROLE OF ELDERS IN A FAMILY

Grandparents are God's image on earth who work as caregivers for their children and grandchildren. Having a grandparent at home is like a blessing, as they pamper their grandkids and complete the family as a whole. The offer is the wealth of wisdom and knowledge that they have achieved throughout their life experiences. Imagine you had back home after school and the dining table is all set with delicious food made by your grandparents. These are the small and healthy family relations that teach us about love, care, respect and life. It would help the children to develop attachments, improve social skills, learn family values and build child memories which they will carry for a lifetime.

MUNICIPAL CORPORATION

A municipal corporation is a local government entity created by a state to administer a city or town. It operates with a degree of autonomy to manage and provide essential services to its residents, such as water supply, sanitation, public health, education, transportation, and infrastructure maintenance.

Municipal corporations typically have an elected body, such as a city council or a board of commissioners, and an executive head, such as a mayor or a city manager. They have the authority to levy taxes, enact local laws, and undertake development projects within their jurisdiction. The structure and powers of a municipal corporation can vary depending on the country and its specific legal framework.

In addition to the basic definition, here are more details about municipal corporations:

• STRUCTURE AND GOVERNENCE

1. Elected Representatives: Municipal corporations are usually governed by a group of elected representatives. These may include a mayor, council members, and sometimes commissioners.
2. Executive Officers: Besides elected officials, there are appointed officers like the city manager or municipal commissioner who handle the day-to-day administration.

• FUNDING AND RESPONSIBILITY

1. Public Services: Municipal corporations provide essential public services like water supply, sewage treatment, waste management, and public health services.

MUNICIPAL ADMINISTRATION

A municipal corporation is a local government entity created by a state to administer a city or town, it operates with a degree of autonomy to manage and provide services to residents, such as water supply, sanitation, public health, education, transportation and infrastructure maintenance.

Municipal corporations typically have an elected body, such as a city council or a board of commissioners, and an executive head, such as a manager. They have the authority to levy taxes, enact local laws, and undertake development projects within their jurisdiction. The structure and powers of a municipal corporation can vary depending on the country and its specific legal framework.

In addition to the basic definition, here are more details about municipal corporations:

Introduction

In addition to the municipal council, Ratanpur is also part of a larger district administration, which is headed by a District Collector who oversees broader administrative functions and coordinates with local authorities.

For the most current and detailed information about the municipal administration in Ratanpur, including contact details and specific functions, you may want to consult the official website of the Bilaspur district or visit local government offices.

STRUCTURE IN GOVERNANCE

In Ratanpur, the governance structure typically follows a hierarchical model that aligns with the broader administrative setup of the state of Chhattisgarh and the Indian administrative framework. Here's a general outline of the governance structure in Ratanpur:

INTRODUCTION

WHAT IS NGO?

A non-governmental organization (NGO) is a non-profit group that functions independently of any government. NGOs, sometimes called civil societies, are organized on community, national and international levels to serve a social or political goal such as humanitarian causes or the environment.

HOW ARE NGOS FUNDED?

As non-profits, NGOs rely on a variety of sources for funding, including

- I. Membership dues
- II. Private donations
- III. The sale of goods and services
- IV. Grants

Despite their independence from governments, some NGOs rely heavily on government funding. Large NGOs may have budgets in the millions or billions of dollars.

INTRODUCTION

I am excited to introduce myself as Sparsh, a recent intern with Yuva Sathi Foundation in Surajpur. I am currently pursuing a Bachelor of Arts in Political Science (Honors) at Guru Ghasidas Vishwavidyalaya, Bilaspur. My academic background has equipped me with a solid foundation in political science, which I have effectively applied in practical settings during my internship. My experience included official visits and village outreach programs aimed at raising awareness among local communities about ongoing issues and crimes within the Surajpur district. These activities have enhanced my ability to interact with diverse groups of people and strengthened my commitment to addressing social issues.

I am particularly passionate about social advocacy, which motivated me to participate in several village visits with my team to educate and inform residents about important matters affecting their communities. I look forward to collaborating with the talented team at Yuva Sathi Foundation and learning from your collective expertise. Please feel free to reach out to me if there are any initial tasks or projects you would like me to start on. Thank you for this opportunity. AKHIL BHARATIYA VANVASI KALYAN ASHRAM

The tribal communities in India suffer from a lack of both education and proper health care facilities due to various factors including government neglect. As a result, the communities often have a sense of alienation from present-day India which is being rapidly urbanized and modernized. To bring them into the mainstream with economic development but with their cultural moorings intact is an extremely important task. Akhil Bharatiya Vanvasi Kalyan Ashram (ABVKA) is dedicated to empowering these communities, by providing quality education, women's empowerment and economic development programs, as well as conducting health programs and medical camps.
